a. Art Placement - Nick Farline, Parks and Recreation Director

Nick Farline presented a potential spot for the Stainless Steel Fishes that have been in storage for years now. He shared that he surveyed Columbia Park to find a low-traffic, high visibility spot to house the fish. Some issues with the fish are as follows:

- 1) They are not to be sat on. If placed in a spot with high traffic, children could be hurt if they try to sit on the fish.
- 2) They may or may not stand up perfectly when placed on the ground. The Parks and Rec staff plan to experiment with a light/smaller fish to find the correct way to place fish to be sturdy and last.
- 3) The fish were previously hit by cars. We want them placed somewhere with slow driving traffic to reduce the risk of damage.

The Arts Commissioners discussed and asked the following questions to make their decision.

- 1) Rohana has informed the commissioners that the steel posts have had to be replaced before due to previously being hits by cars.
- 2) Kennedy asked if there are enough fish to fill the round-about.
- 3) Hughs weighed in that if the fish should be divided by size by taking a 9in, 7in, and 5in, divided and scattered where traffic could see best on the three sides, where traffic enters the round about. He believes that there should be extra fish which could be placed near the tree for cohesiveness.

Hughs moved to approve the proposal of the steel fish in round about. Watson seconded; all in favor.
